WIND OFF-SHORE, DROVE BOS-TON TRAWLERS FOR SHELTER.

There is a scarcity of fresh fish among local dealers today, for since yesterday, there have been but two small fares of groundfish. This morning a small boat had 3000 pounds which were taken out at Hall & Murray's. The dragger William L. Putnam came down from Boston yesterday afternoon with a fare of 30,000 pounds of large cod, which were taken out at the Pew wharf and split.

A fleet of 10 gill netters arrivesterday, having mostly codfish.

The general news of world fish

The general news of world fish markets show strength as compared with a fortnight ago, and yet for bank fish such as we produce at Lunenburg, the market is still in bad shape, says the Maritime Merchant.

The reason for this bad market for Lunenburg bank fish, is the competition of what is known as Labrador slop in the various West Indies markets long supplied by us. It used to be that Labrador slop found its market in Europe, but a few years ago when this market failed, an attack was made on Porto Rico and certain other parts of the West Indies, and today with consignments sent by direct steamer and otherwise from today with consignments sent by direct steamer and otherwise from Newfoundland, it is practically connected are strong, and others nave from received to supply a New York credit if purchases can be made here. This rather proves that what Newfoundland reports about the shortage of shore fish is true. In Southern Brazil the government has recently arranged to permit exchange covering Brazil the government has recently arranged to permit exchange covering dried fish purchases up to $1000 sterling at one time. This offer, however, is not devoid of the danger that before the bills come due, the government may change its mind. Stocks here suitable for Southern Brazil are very limited indeed. The news from Italy and Portugal is of a stronger character. We wish we could say the same thing of the markets that call for bank fish. We keep on hoping that improvement will reach us within the next month. We have no news regarding reparations for the new season at Lunenburg. Everybody down there is in the blues these days. the blues these days.

TAKE INJURED MAN

OFF PORTLAND TRAWLER

The Coast Guard destroyer Wainwright met the beam trawler Penguin of the Portland Trawling Company's fleet off Cape Cod last night to take on board an injured member of the fishing vessel's crew, who was urgently in need of medical attention after dislocating his kneecap while working aboard the boat many miles off shore. The victim will arrive in Boston aboard the destroyer today, and will be taken to a hospital for treatment.

EIGHT ARRIVALS SINCE YESTERDAY

ENTIRE FLEET OUT ON THE FISHING GROUNDS TODAY

Eight small boats with a total catch of 8800 pounds of groundfish, mostly codfish, have reported here since yesterday. Five of these boats were taken by Hall & Murray, while the other three sold to Murray & Tarr. A fleet of 10 gill netters fished yesterday, and their total catch amounted to 17,500 pounds. The entire fleet of draggers and trawlers is out on the grounds today, and Monday's market should be pretty well supplied with fresh fish.

The crews shared well.

The crews shared well.

The crew of the Irene and Mary shared approximately $25 per man and the crew of the Dot and Hellie shared approximately $16 per man. It is understood that those are the highis understood that those are the highest prices paid anywhere in Nova Scotia, Ralph P. Bell, of the Lockeport Company, Limited, told a reporter. He stated that if the large buyers in Halifax, Lunenburg and Liverpool would pay similarly high prices there would be no difficulty in maintaining such a price level for the remainder of the winter. But, he declared if some of the large buyers maintaining such a price level for the remainder of the winter. But, he ideclared, if some of the large buyers are able to compel their vessels and bcrews to fish for the low prices they have obtained most of the winter, so far namely one and three-quarter cents for haddock and three-quarter cents for markets, those buyers who would like to pay a fair price to the fishermen are unable to do so and still compete in the markets. If all paid a fair price there would be no difficulty in maintaining a better price level in the Upper Canadian markets and the fishermen would receive a decent return for their labours, said Mr. Bell.

What is believed to constitute a record, was the speedy run from Lockeport to Halifax made Thursday by the two-masted auxiliary schooner Irene Mary, Capt. Leo Corkum of Lunenburg. The craft, fishing out of Lockeport, came to Halifax for fuel oil. She left Lockeport at 7 o'clock, Thursday morning, and put into Halifax just after 2 o'clock in the afternoon, taking seven hours for the run and averaging almost 12 knots an hour.—Halifax Herald.

ON HAND TODAY

000 POUNDS FRESH FISH-MARKET LOWER

Things hummed on the Boston fish pier this morning as the biggest fleet in months crowded every available bit of docking space with fares that approached the record for a single day's receipts. Fifty arrivals were recorded today. Their fares totaled 1.550,000 pounds of groundfish and 400.000 nounds of mixed fish.

1.550,000 pounds of groundfish and 400,000 pounds of mixed fish.
Individual trips were heavy, nearly all of the nine steamers hairing for 100,000 pounds or better. Codfish was in large supply and receipts of this variety amounted practically to a half of the total.

The market was only fair on the opening. Haddock sold at $2.50 to $3.50; large cod and markets the same, $1.50 to $2. With such heavy receipts, there was little likelihood of any improvement.
